I perfer front horns to f200a I have been using f200a for 5 years now have much experance Bob picked my brain befor building his system.F200a is a wonderful driver and has near full range responce.I get 30hz out of cab in link.But it doesnt have the dynamics of front horns doesnt sound as at ease.Doesnt have the image size.But is much cheaper to build due to cab design.I have bass horns and other cabs that have mated great with front horns but you are right its not easy.But is worth it in the end I have both f200a and front horns plus others in my systems.I have also used f200a in front horns sounds very nice but no trebile gets lost in the horn.
