This takes me back to a question I posed maybe when I was first getting into the hobby:http://www.diyaudio.com/forums/showthread.php?s=&threadid=47558&highlight=Can a folded design be compacted? When I was thinking of this I had a desing in mind and then today,BOOM! there it was. somebody had made it. So can anyone venture an opinion as to whether such a design workswell and is practical? The sample graph shown in the articledoes not look especially smoothe.But I've been trying to figure out a good home for the TB 871-Spair I have. The design orginally given and built just has notbeen successful.
