
Subject: Re: Horns, transmission lines and reflex cabinets
Posted by Wayne Parham on Tue, 16 Aug 2005 15:00:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The thing that makes the difference is the mouth area. If it's not very large, then the device acts more like a tuned pipe than a horn. So there's a lot of overlap in physical and acoustic characteristics between tapered pipes and horns.
