
Subject: Infor on Dave Merrill Plus DBX Xover

Posted by akhilesh on Tue, 09 May 2006 21:10:55 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi Shane, His name is Dave Merrill, and his email is: AMERRILL AT WEB-STER DOT COM. He is a single driver fanatic, and has built all sorts of stuff. He is selling these drivers (with plans for the horn that are free off the web anyway) for $40 a pair. Just to clarify, I have no commercial interest in this whatsoever, hence am posting it here and not in the SWAP forum. Drop him a line. He is a nice guy. My DBX crossover model is: DBX 234. It was made in 1999. Not sure if DBX makes it today. It's an analog stereo 3 way crossover. Other companies that make these are ART, Behringer, etc etc. IF you want to spend more bucks, get a Rane. DBX is good middle of the pack. Hope this helps! -akhilesh
