

---

Subject: A few questions

Posted by riceburner on Tue, 09 Mar 2004 18:04:09 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

All the best large concerts have flown arrays that give long throw right? How does this translate to benefit at home in hifi speakers? What are the best connection diagrams for home use? I know there are different array types, but don't have a clue which is which. What are the pros and cons of each one? I see Eminence has made a new speaker designed to be used in arrays. Has anybody here built speakers with them?

---