Dave,No issue with single driver, MT, etc. on the WR125 designs--all glowing reports. The line array designs with the WR125's were early models just after availability of the drivers and thus had not apparently reached enough design maturity, I suspect. Again, I'm reporting what I read on the web and not personal listening experiences.On the Fountek 2.0 version it offers inherent length and minimzes the gaps which would result if you used Neo 3's in a line.Jim
