Thanks Jim. Those NSB's look ugly from 1,400hz right on up. But I think I may have found the answer to my future array project. Take a look at this little 3 incher and let me know what you think. http://www.zaphaudio.com/audio-speaker18.html I think with a little work I can get a very good x-over with the PE neo dome and this 3" driver. I'm going to buy a few examples of each driver recheck the T/S on the woofer tester 2 and run it through LspCAD. I really didn't want to spend $9 per mid/woof and $4 per tweet but I have a good feeling about this combo. For any real bass these of course will require sub(s)
