Thanks Fred; good reply. My original intention in bringing this up was to open a dialogue regarding the sound of Array speakers and whether the premium price due to the use of many quality drivers would be acceptable to people with that amount of money to spend.The lIne Array concept has been around for a while; I remmember the old Infinity's were always an excellent sound. The price was always the deterent. Look at the AudioeXpress article this month; he uses a similar design and spends considerably more money on it.
