
Subject: Re: Inspired by the McIntosh XRT2K
Posted by justinc on Wed, 24 Jan 2007 13:58:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Regarding the choice of tweeter/mid I can't see that I have a choice for this design. Going with an array of smaller units (like the Neo8) will not allow a cross at 350 without serious compromises in SQ. A long and robust ribbon could do the trick, but short of DIYing one (which I don't dare attempt) they seem to be in short supply... Do you have any suggestions? If you don't want sub/mid and tweeter, try something like the 1 aurasound cougar which is pretty flat from 300hz-20khz. It also will not have comb filtering until much higher in the frequency so it could be a good alternative.
