I pretty much agree with you but differ in some key areas. Rather than purchasing 49 cent midranges, I prefer buyout models that listed for the vicinity of $11 to $18, and the use of a lot of Dayton Neo 20A tweeters (like 30 per side). The use of that many tweeters drops the distortion way way down, and I happen to prefer the sound of dome's anyway. The use of a decent buyout midrange in groups of 17 plus raises the quality of the mids also. I then use a quality ($130 or so) model 12 inch woofer for each side of the bass range. But to each his own. I MIGHT be willing to try the B&G Neo3 some time.....Marlboro
