

---

Subject: Re: Anyone Ever Tried These Drivers In Line Array ?

Posted by Ka7niq on Tue, 12 Jun 2007 14:37:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Sunny Florida, USA! Check Ebay, there are hundreds of these computer speakers coming up for sale. This Drago guy evidently sells them, maybe not the EXACT one he does for VMPS, but I know he sells them. Thilo from TC Sounds who makes monster subwoofer drivers is coming out with a line source. I THINK he plans or is making his OWN ribbon. In a conversation he mentioned Drago, and I THINK he said he was looking at some drivers from him. This would indicate to me that Drago sells to anyone who will buy his stuff? I wonder if anyone has ever run a frequency sweep/distortion measurement on this driver? It will not play real low, I know that! Maybe THAT is why people are not using it, because with a cone driver you eliminate the need for a crossover right in the vital lower midrange? I wonder if Jim, Rick or Danny ever played with this driver? Strange, I hardly ever see it mentioned, or any data published for it?

---