I may be wrong, but I do not think this is what Lito is doing...The microphone output limiter attenuates the entire signal. If I read the posts correctly, he is using a 12AX7 tube before the amplifier to reduce the negative portion of the input signal to the amp, and then to the speaker, so the driver only reacts to the positive portion of the signal. That's what I have interpreted. Not sure if that is correct, waiting on Lito's responseTom R
