The purpose of your initial post in the thread, and this one too, appears to be to vent your feelings about VMPS. I don't question the validity of all you said, just that this kind of post always takes the conversation in a negative direction. I doubt that's what the "silent majority" of people on this forum want. It's certainly not what I want. You're welcome to stay and post on this forum, but take the negativity elsewhere.
