Subject: Also...
Posted by Darkmoebius on Tue, 20 May 2008 19:49:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'd assume that the big TV screen would provide a pretty nasty 1st reflection point. Try hanging a thick comforter over the cabinet once to see if anything changes.Anything large between speakers has the potential to really screw up imaging and depth of soundstage. Just some basic room acoustics pointers that have worked for me in the past.