
Subject: Re: At Target for less money
Posted by lon on Tue, 03 Aug 2004 04:16:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

So are these Target stick-ups toys or what? How does Target sell them... I mean to whom for what purpose? Seat shakers? Fun stuff. There was a Decware design floating around which I tried to track down. The membrane was small and desktop size but, you know, look like they come from the future. So who's going to post the first "This is a good place for a stick-up" article? If cardboard is good, is Masonite better? As an aside, I have been wracking my brain for the issue of audioXpress in which they show a Cornu-type spiral horn construction project. I have the mags... but there's no multiple year index. I started to look for it one day and got distracted by all the other neat stuff in the old mags. Teh Cornu spiral horn is another design to fit thin and close to the wall.
