Good suggestion, thanks. And I understand the negative sentiment about wireless headphones, as I feel this way about wireless speakers. But I really think it is more because of specific implementations and not necessarily because of the technology. All the wireless speaker systems I ever saw were mediocre, but this doesn't mean that the technology is flawed - I just happened to see mediocre implementations. So that makes me feel skeptical about other implementations, even though I know that good designs are certainly possible. Anyway, I already have high end gear and am just looking for a wireless solution.
