What about listening to the radio? I can buy a casette tape and record any music I want off the radio and it's free. If I wanted I could then burn it to a CD using my computer and start selling illegal copies of it and make cash. Why is this different? Kazaa did actually run into a lot of trouble at one stage too, it was on the news here but I forgot how it turned out. Nothing seems to have happened to restrict what they do though.
