Subject: Re: What are the differences of the sound when using different isolation transformers? Posted by Wayne Parham on Mon, 16 Mar 2009 18:04:42 GMT View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In some cases, the reduction of hum is substantial. It really depends upon the condition, quality and configuration of the earth ground connections. An isolation transformer can break a ground loop, which in turn can result in the reduction of noise.