Subject: Re: General Electric Stereo Console Phonograph
Posted by Wayne Parham on Mon, 13 Mar 2006 14:59:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have a book that lists values of a couple hundred radios, so I'll look for your GE Model C522 this evening. I'll post here if it's listed. But to be honest, the list was made maybe 5 years ago and I wonder if it's still current. Seems like interest in old radios is growing, nostalgia perhaps. I think the best way to get a feel for its value is watch eBay. You'll find some radios - like Transoceanics - that regularly bring a couple hundred dollars and more, even in poor shape. Others, usually "no-name" brands, can be bought working and in great condition, for twenty-five bucks or less.