Yeah, the "Refresh" button is sort of like my "check for posts" button. I also use it to confirm I actually made a post instead of just doing a "Preview." I usually preview before I post, but sometimes when I'm in a hurry, I forget to actually post. So I make it a habit to hit back a couple times, get to the index page and click "Refresh" to make sure my post is there. Same kind of thing, I always click "Refresh" when I go into a forum to see if anyone else has made new posts. Otherwise, I only see what the browser has cached, which may be yesterday's news.
