Subject: Re: Carvin V3 vs Hughes and Kettner Switchblade
Posted by Biggizmo54 on Mon, 25 Sep 2006 10:02:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The choice would depend on the sound you desire. When purchasing an amplifier, the most common mistake is to use a shop axe. Use the one you are familiar with...then try different axes from the shop to voice versatility in the amp itself...spend time with it. Either amp you suggested are excellent. You gotta play it like it is supposed to be played. Take note of effects response and vibration at various level in bottom. What is that speaker cone telling you?