Subject: Vox Amp Issue

Posted by Silent Mind on Mon, 28 Jul 2008 05:39:22 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have a AD100VT Valvetronix amp that I gig pretty hard with. It recently has been cutting in and out. I diagnosed that it is definitely the amp and not the guitar or cables. I was wondering if I need to replace the input jack or if it could be the Electro-Harmonix preamp tube. When playing I have to strike the strings very hard to get sound to come out and then it cuts out completely before fully fading out. Any help would be great!!!