Ok, thanks fro clearing this up for me. I guess I will have to order some rack panels and get going on this. I am comfortable with tools and soldering irons; I can't imagine a non-mechanically inclined person pulling this off without having to pay through the nose. I am really amazed there aren't pre made Speakon patch bays offered for sale. I wonder if it is because of liability because of the many ways the cables can be wired and potentially smoke equipment? Thanks again Bill.
