
Subject: Stereo vs summed to mono for Subwoofers
Posted by granch on Wed, 08 Aug 2007 19:16:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Given two or more subwoofers in a stereo system, what difference, if any, will there be between connecting the subwoofers in stereo or summing the channels to mono and feeding that signal to both subs? I have a little experience with this but not much and would appreciate any words of wisdom. Would it make a difference to the answer if the two subs were colocated or located with each stereo channel. I have only tried it colocated and not noticed any difference. I can think of arguments on either side, but I need practical advice. Dick
