Hi Lon, All that talk about chip amps over in the Semiconductor forum made me want to get down some of the chips I have and build a little amp. They do sound good, and are incredibly easy to build. Like Gnational said, all you really have to do is hook up power to 'em. I have a ton of those chips of various power levels from car stereos and what not over the years. I remember looking at the tech sheets that came with the chips and seeing that they didn't need much at all, but I still put 'em in my parts bin for "later." So I'm thinking I should dig through there and see what I have. Wayne
