I have not seen any vacuum tube surround processor. There are a couple of sites you can check out for the "latest" and greatest the Far East has to offer. It seems all tube gear coming out of China is two-channel. Korsun D9 a nice multi-channel ss amp, but that's about it. The first is nysound.com. I have ordered several times from this company, and they are very reliable. In fact, this is where the cable set for one of the giveaways came from. Shipping is a bit steep, but google search for a discount code for free shipping - used to work, but I don't know anymore. The second one to try for the latest eye candy is Catty (<http://www.cattylink.com/engproducts.htm>) I have never ordered from them, but I have asked for quotes and always received professional responses quickly. Again, I don't see any vacuum tube processors. Best of luck, and if you find anything let us know.....Colin
