Bill, given the quality of your work, I appreciate the kind words. I took a woodworking class last fall (never touched a power tool before in my life!) and learned the yellow (or white) glue/iron trick from the instructor.The design and bracing are right off the Adire website. The only thing I did was double up the bottom baffle and top of the cabinet.I'll also give some credit to my Ryobi BT3100 tablesaw, which is an outstanding piece of equipment. I'm still a rank beginner, but I feel a little more confident each time.
