...with his Vindaloo if I remember the Hitchhijer's Guide right. Zaphod (sorry Zaphoid) writes regularly to the Madisound board using his real name and he lives very near me. but I don't use his name cuz he's sort of a curmudgeon. However you will note from his site that he does real craftsman work. I figured if I got into trouble I'd have somebody close to get me out of a jam... like the part about finding someone with a roundover bit to do the edges of the Rotozip can't handle it... not to mention the rabbet work needed to flush mount. I think I'll be surface mounting the driver unless the Tool Fairy is good to me.
