Subject: Re: Finished PI
Posted by lon on Tue, 25 May 2004 04:14:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have a lot of router questions and this is a good lede for them.Some say you have to have a plunge router while others willfavor fixed base. If I wanted to mount the router on a router base for doingshaping work of edges I'd need a fixed base. But if I were using the Jasper jig to make cutouts I would need a plunge. Then there's the combo ones with interchangeable fixed/plunge base. As a starter tool, I want to get the simplest and cheapestpossible for the sort of light duty stuff I'd want to do. Hopefully Father's Day will produce some sale merchandise.So what kind of tips do you all have?