Subject: Re: Jasper Jig on Sale at PE
Posted by lon on Sun, 01 Aug 2004 02:53:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I was waiting for this deal to come around again, thanks. My plan is to mount one on my roto tool router attachmentand save the bigger one for an actual router. Last go-roundon deals at the local tool superstore I got the spin tooland have actually made the thing work. Some problems handlingstock like not having the right hold-down and clamp setupso it's a good thing I have spares blanks to finish offmy project. The router attachment is made of some sort of cheapwhite metal and I'd have to match up a set of mountingholes on the Jasper by tapping the base of the routerattachment. Does this sound impractical to anyone?