

---

Subject: Re: Jasper Jig on Sale at PE
Posted by lon on Sun, 01 Aug 2004 02:53:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I was waiting for this deal to come around again, thanks. My plan is to mount one on my roto tool router attachment and save the bigger one for an actual router. Last go-round on deals at the local tool superstore I got the spin tool and have actually made the thing work. Some problems handling stock like not having the right hold-down and clamp setup so it's a good thing I have spares blanks to finish off my project. The router attachment is made of some sort of cheap white metal and I'd have to match up a set of mounting holes on the Jasper by tapping the base of the router attachment. Does this sound impractical to anyone?

---