I never get to shows but I know what you're talking about. The thought of going into an audio store these days gives me the creeps. The next question is what keeps them going? Are there enough readers of Playboy and now Maxim (I suppose) to keep that dream of the swinging bachelor pad alive? We've discussed before that women find little interest in these topics so I wonder what 'the pitch' is from the sellers. And what are these pieces of retail gear to which you refer?
