I still like the idea of a PP 6V6 or for a little more power, 6L6. These are good tubes. The Iron foe a stero amp is inexpensive. One could use a SE input stage and use an IT to do the phase splitting, or use a PP input stage and do the phase splitting at the input. Total cost for these, with decent parts would be approx, $500 to $600. The results would be killer.Joe
