

---

Subject: which is to say..

Posted by PakProtector on Sat, 03 Dec 2005 22:03:15 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

as a manufacturer, you should publish specifications of interest, and the test conditions they are achieved under. Or just sit back and wait for an interested customer to publish thier won measurements. This leaves the question: do you want the quantity in question, in this case winding capacitance, to be a matter of speculation and private measurement, or of public record from your own measurements?The former will certainly occur, would you be happier with that or your own measurements?cheers,Douglas

---