
Subject: Re: measuring grid chokes

Posted by colinhester on Wed, 14 Dec 2005 23:52:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Depending on how serious you are about this experiment, you might want to contact the local university's EE dept. I'm sure a prof would be more than willing to donate time / resources to help secure data and verify your results. Also, what thought have you given to stastical variations in manufacturing? This might prove to be intersting, depending on the winder and their QC/QA procedures.....$0.02
