Hey Colin,Excellent idea. It won't do any good with the current situation. I could have God himself measure, and there would be knuckleheads coming out of the woodwork claiming that the numbers did not mean a thing. I do have access to the best, both at home and at the local University. There are also a few audio enthusiasts from work who feel the same about a well stocked lab as I do. I've a few sources of guidance, should that become an issue.And then there's the statistical variation...cheers,Douglas
