Thanks Damir for your amplifier design information.Obviously, you have put in allot of time and hard work to bring this to us. It looks great, and is very much appreciated.I was wondering if I over looked the power supply information?I am looking forward to your completed information on this design.And I hope you will have time in the future to include substituting a 2A3 for the 300B? And also, will be so kind as to share this information as you have the detailed information on this 300B project.BravoNorris Wilson
