Subject: The bass is back.
Posted by Forty2wo on Mon, 05 Jun 2006 03:25:08 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I went back and restored the B+ to the original higher level, 425v on the plate of the 300b verses 375v. This raised the D3a plate to 192V, up from 155V. So I have the grid of the D3a at 2.2V for about 9.5ma.So how does it sound? Good, very good. In the neighborhood of outstanding, but not in the house yet.Compared to my references, DRD 45's this amp is more lively but not as refined.So we're dancing to the electric blues and that's good enough for now…John