Anyone who has recieved an email from me since 6/9/06, should do a virus scan on their computer, Shane.SORRY!My Norton Anti-virus software and spybot did not detect a worm that I got from an advertisement pop up.I am having a hard time trying to isolate this bugger. It appears to have taken control where I cannot get my computer to connect to a few anti-virus software websites, like major geeks. I have been hijacked! There are words missing from my interenet explorer task bar. And my computer seems not to be able to recognize paths to my favorites, ect. Someone told me it is some type of Trojan virus, I mean pain in the ###. I am not sure, but I may have to totaly dump everything and reload all operating software.Any suggestions???????Norris Wilson
