Subject: Any of you "hit the lights?"
Posted by Wayne Parham on Sat, 08 Sep 2001 07:03:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Any of you "hit the lights" on your PX-BII1K6's yet? If you've used this crossover and built your compensation network into your tweeter cable assembly, you may have experienced this - but only if you're running a few hundred watts or more. Here's a fun little treat for you. Twist the "go knob" around until you reach a few hundred watts and watch the ports. You'll see the protective lamps light up.