I don't know about a comparison to the Kappa 15, but I can speak to the Omega 15. It may be a better comparison anyway, because they're closer in build and performance levels. The Kilomax doesn't shift as much at moderate power levels, so it sounds the same at 10 watts as it does at a couple hundred watts in the bass and midbass. The Omega gets a little more bloated down low when pushed hard than does the Kilomax. On the other hand, I like the midrange of the Omega better. Voices are warm and natural, just a little more so I think than the Kilomax.
