Hey, I was wondering what your thoughts are on building a 7 pi corner horn, and rather than placing it in the corner of a room, use plywood to build a giant horn mouth like the corner of a room so it can be used in places other than in a corner. It would prolly be pretty big, with the horn edge shooting out like 4' with a giant mouth, very difficult to move, very heavy... Do you think it would be worth it? Would it have the same effect as a standard corner placement???ThanksAdam
