HI Wayne,It's not a business anymore. Aczel is 80 years old. He ocassionally writes reviews in his e-zine, a lifetime subscription to which is $12.95. Needless to say, I am a subscriber to the e-zine. It's great to read the writings of a guy who can write well, is objective and has been around since the early days of hi-fi. I doubt if Aczel ever made money on his mag. His views are too detrimental to the high end companies to ever allow him to succeed. What I like is that here is an audio insider who actually speaks the truth (as he sees it) without regard to gain...or to pissing other people off. Such intellectual honesty is rare, almost unique, in high -end audiophilia. A true gem. IMHO.
