

---

Subject: Jet Hot

Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 03 Mar 2002 06:03:09 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Have you tried the sterling finish from "Jet Hot?" It's a little expensive, and it's really intended for high heat applications. But it looks great and is extremely durable. It will resist wear and impacts as well as it resists heat, and it looks just like polished aluminum. They also have black, gray and blue coatings, which look more like anodized or powder coat finishes. It's a great coating.