horrible grammar in that last post. leme fix it. I cut up a $50 4X8 of veneered Birch today, beautiful on the outside. After the second cut I looked down and the plywood had split, right between the 2nd and 3rd ply. All 48 inches the ply's just seperated about 1" and about 10" down, making a really tall narrow 'Y' when looked at from the side. I did my best to glue and clamp one half. I'm gonna go back to the place I got it from and make em give me another one. I'm exited though.
