Sure, I've just got bored at work, so I had some fun. after I posted I added some calculation to show % of power dissipated in each component.sure, I'll add some more stuff to it.The response curve idea is cool. the rough model using Re and Le should give a pretty good picture of what it looks like.if there are any more suggestions or questions (I'm no the best at designing easy to use stuff) from anybody that would be cool.Thanks,Danny
