

---

Subject: Re: New woodglue

Posted by bmar on Sun, 12 May 2002 22:26:23 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Its good glue. I believe it is part of the polyurathane glue family. could be wrong on that but it acts like other urathane glue. so far any work Ive done with it has been good. It's actually good for finished joints because the squeeze out scrapes off easilly, unlike yellow glue. It's expensive so I use when I need to only.I highly recomend you DONT get this on your hands.