

---

Subject: Re: My question re boomy subs
Posted by Adam on Fri, 17 May 2002 21:43:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Oh, the Pluto also has an fs of 26 Hz, so if put in the right enclosures, they can be total beasts for low end output. I also wanted to mention that shop owners will often run subs in undersized or improperly tuned enclosures. Even a lower grade woofer (for pro, home or car design) can made to be sound okay if put in the right box. A lot of enclosures for subs sold on the cheap, 'teen' market are placed in improperly tuned or undersized enclosures, so it's not always the manufacturers fault, either. Adam