
Subject: Re: 4 Pi answers (plus two Pi questions)
Posted by Adam on Sat, 18 May 2002 19:07:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Well, putting the port in the back will only require you to leave a bit of clearance between the speaker back and the wall or wahtever. I usually rear mount the ports if the woofer is reproducing higher frequencies so you don't have them emanating from the port and interfering. They'll still emanate from the port in the back, but a lot less will get around the speaker and to your ear. Adam