If you can get 59.2mm ports, that's perfect. It's only 0.05" different than what is specified, which is closer tolerance than I would expect when buying cardboard tubes of the exact dimension. About the paint we apply to the inside of the ports, they're hand-painted after the veneer is applied so that the edge of the veneer is covered. Not the most time-effective way to do it, but the results are good.
